The Problem

Indian grocery retail is broken — for consumers and kirana stores alike

Consumer Pain Points

- 67% of urban households: no large supermarket within 3 km
- Kirana stores close by 9 PM — no late-night options
- Avg in-store grocery trip: 18 mins in Indian metros
- No reliable cold-chain: perishables often damaged
- Avg Rs.350 impulse basket lost per missed top-up trip
- Inconsistent pricing across 12M+ kirana stores

Market Gap

- India's $600B grocery market is 97% unorganised
- E-commerce = only 3% of grocery spend (vs 15%+ in China)
- Existing platforms take 30–45 mins; poor availability
- No player offered sub-15-min delivery at scale pre-2021
- Dark store model completely absent in India pre-2021
- 220M urban professionals (18–45 yrs) deeply underserved

India's grocery sector generates $600B+ in annual spend — yet less than 1% is fulfilled online with speed

Our Solution

Zepto — India's first 10-minute grocery delivery platform powered by dark stores

From order to doorstep in under 10 minutes. Always.

Dark Store Network

Strategically located micro-warehouses (2,000–4,000 sqft) within 2 km of customers. 100% dedicated to delivery — no walk-in traffic.

Intelligent Routing

Proprietary ML dispatch engine assigns orders to nearest picker + rider in <8 seconds. Real-time ETA accuracy: 94%.

Curated SKU Depth

3,000–5,000 SKUs per dark store — covering 95% of everyday grocery needs: fresh produce, FMCG, dairy, snacks, and personal care.

KEY FINANCIAL ASSUMPTIONS

- Average order value assumed to grow from Rs.285 (FY24) to Rs.380 (FY26) driven by basket expansion
- Dark store capex: Rs.35–50L per store; payback period ~18 months at maturity
- Rider cost modelled at Rs.22/order FY24 declining to Rs.15/order FY26 via density leverage
- Private label SKUs projected to reach 12% of GMV by FY26 (vs. 4% FY24) — highest margin category
- Zepto Pass subscriber base modelled at 2.5M by FY26 at Rs.299/month
- CAC payback: 3.2 months FY24 → 2.1 months FY26 as brand awareness compounds
